

RED CROSS BULLETIN

The Junior Red Cross has ordered through the local chapter three bolts of bright colored creton. The material will be used in making small bags. These bags are sent by the Red Cross to the hospitals where they are given to the wounded men for a receptacle in which they may place their little personal possessions, such as letters received which they may wish to keep, pocket pieces or souvenirs of battles in which they engaged, etc.

Nearly every man has a few of these small trinkets — invaluable to themselves which they guard jealously. Naturally these cannot be carried about the person during illness; clothing must be sent away for repair and fumigation, and there is always an anxiety on the part of the patient over the small objects which he prizes so highly. To meet this demand these small, gay bags are fashioned. They hang on the head of the cots and every man can place therein his valued treasures and have them accessible at any time.

The High school and upper grades are making bed shirts and convalescent robes besides the lots of knitting which the girls are busy upon.

The young people all over town are intensely interested in the Red Cross.

The work accomplished by the Junior Red Cross is entirely separate and apart from the work of the local chapter. The Juniors have their own organization and receive credit from Washington for the work turned out by themselves.

Work Room Ravelings.

The women are very much interested in the new electric sewing machine motor. Every one is anxious to try it out, and all are very enthusiastic over what it accomplishes by means of a double socket connection the motor will run two machines and this will lighten sewing labor prodigiously.

A nicely done sweater and scarf were received this week from Miss Caroline Stanley who is a student at the Ward Belmont school, in Nashville, Tenn., this winter. Many Fairmont girls are absent from our city at present in various schools and colleges but they always find some time for the Red Cross in spite of numerous other demands.

Miss Bertie Bartlett, the cashier of the Watson cafe, turned in to Mrs. Grimsley, one of our knitting instructors, a khaki sweater Thursday evening. Miss Bartlett took her first lesson in knitting less than two weeks ago, and has proven to be a very proficient scholar.

Manual Training School Helps Out.

Some of the manual training school boys came in yesterday afternoon and installed more shelves in the stock room. Our supplies are increasing at such a rate that the need was imperative. The boys who are taking manual training are always generously willing and ready to do all they can for the chapter, and the chairman of the work room extends sincere thanks for yesterday's labor.

No Juvenile Work Today.
Mrs. Davis regrets that owing to the surgical dressings instructions now progressing it will be impossible to receive the children at headquarters today. Next Saturday will find everything clear and the children's work will proceed as usual.

Miss Kelly Absent.
Owing to a death in the family Miss Kelly has been absent from her post this week. The chairman of the chapter, Mrs. Jolliffe, has been looking after Miss Kelly's duties while she has been away. The work of the secretary is most exacting, and the chapter's large increase has added greatly to the responsibility of this position. Miss Kelly has been most efficient and devoted to her office ever since she has taken the work over, and her presence is greatly missed at headquarters.

Surgical Dressings Class Satisfactory.
The work under Miss Lovejoy is progressing nicely. The class is expected to complete the course in standard dressings by next Wednesday. At the conclusion of this course, the special dressings course will be taken up and continue until the following Saturday. Fairmont chapter will then be able to handle its own gauze work with the utmost efficiency and every effort will be bent to greatly increase the chapter's output of gauze supplies.

Two Boxes Shipped Today.
One box of hospital supplies and one box of knitted articles were shipped today from headquarters. The box of knitted wear contained 25 sweaters, 14 scarfs, 8 pairs socks, 8 pairs wristlets and two helmets. The other box listed 13 convalescent robes, 72 night shirts, 9 dozen towels, 72 sheets, 12 pairs bed socks and six suits pajamas.

Sunday School Donation.
The Boothville Baptist Sunday school gave a donation of 50c to the Red Cross this week; while the donation is not large, it is received with much gratitude by the chapter both for the purchasing value it possesses and for the spirit which prompted the gift. These donations coming in to headquarters show the feeling and thought of the people, and no matter what the amount, each one inspires the chapter to greater effort and warms the hearts of the leaders, with the knowledge that Fairmont chapter of the American Red Cross is being backed by the people over which its jurisdiction extends.

A Family of Knitters.
Knitting seems to run in families if the following summary of the work done by one mother and her daughters is a fair example. Mrs. A. J. Stone who is one of the "stand-bys" in the knitting ranks of the Red Cross has in the past several months knit five scarfs, three sweaters, one pair mits, one helmet, three pairs of socks. The combined knitting output of Mrs. Stone and her daughters through the local chapter is as follows: Twelve sweaters, 11 scarfs, 2 pair mits, one helmet and three pairs of socks and they are still knitting. In addition to this Mrs. Stone has also knit two additional pairs of socks which are on their way to her nephew, Frank M. Fisher, now in France.

D. A. R. Pledges Services.
The William H. H. Chapter of the D. A. R. has pledged its services to the Red Cross.

"FREEDOM FOR ALL, FOREVER!" THAT'S NEW AMERICAN WAR SLOGAN, SELECTED IN CONTEST

MARION I. COOP

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 24.—A national war slogan has been picked for the Americans. It is —

"Freedom for all, forever!"

This war slogan was in a nationwide contest conducted by the newspaper Enterprise Association, which offered a $100 prize for the best war slogan.

Miss Marion I. Coop, a teacher, 3368 Georgia St., San Diego, Cal., was declared the winner by the judges.

Miss Coop submitted her "Freedom for all, forever!" war slogan to the San Diego Sun, one of the many newspapers scattered all over the country assisting in the contest.

Each paper assisting in the slogan hunt first had a local contest in which hundreds and in some cities thousands of war slogans were submitted. From these the one best was selected by local judges and this one entered in the national contest.

The decision of the contest judges has been forwarded to the president, Secretary of War Baker and Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

"We hope this slogan will become as famous in this war as 'Remember the Maine!' was in the Spanish American War," said T. S. Hughes, editor of the Newspaper Enterprise Association. "Certainly there is nothing more worth fighting and bleeding and dying for than 'Freedom for all, forever!'"

A resolution will be introduced in congress authorizing the adoption of that as the national war slogan. It is said. Copies of the slogan will be sent to every cantonment and camp in this country and to the American training camps and trenches "Somewhere in France." It is probable that the slogan will be printed in German and scattered back of the German trenches by allied aviators.

Over 2000 slogans were submitted in the southern California contest, conducted by the San Diego Sun, in which Miss Coop's was adjudged the local winner.

The judge found it no easy task to select the slogan, to be entered for San Diego. In the Newspaper Enterprise Association contest.

After careful deliberation, they awarded the prize to Miss Coop. The judges were thoroughly representative of the war spirit, each being prominent in local war work affairs.

Material to be made into surgical dressings, hospital garments and knitted articles by the women of America will be purchased in the immediate future by the American Red Cross at a cost of $3,457,200. This material will be sold at substantially cost prices to Red Cross chapters throughout the country and the proceeds to the Supply Re-Sale Fund.

The purpose of these large purchases through national headquarters is to obtain goods at wholesale prices by offering the goods to chapters in small quantities at a price only enough in excess of actual cost to pay for the handling. Every chapter obtains the benefit of these prices. The standard of material is passed upon by the Woman's Bureau of the Red Cross and also by representatives of the European staff.

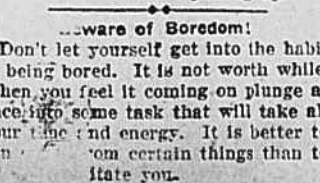

The appropriation covers the purchase of 4,000,000 yards of flannel, 1,500,000 yards of unbleached muslin, 500,000 yards of Tarcovak blanketing, and 150,000 pounds of knitting yarn.

The flannel will be made into pajamas and handkerchiefs, the muslin is for bandages and bed shirts, and both robes will be made from the blanketing. The wool will be knitted into sweaters, socks, mufflers, wristlets and other garments by Red Cross women workers.

The finished articles will be sent to Europe for distribution through the Paris headquarters of the American Red Cross to American and allied forces, as well as to cantonments in this country.

TRAFFIC RULES STOPS RUNAWAY.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 24.—Traffic Officer Smith glanced down Market-st as he waved a string of autos across Third-st. Tearing down to ward him, half a block away came a runaway horse harness flying. Officer Smith faced the animal and held up a white-gloved hand. The horse stopped, but across the "deadline," Smith glared and waved "back up." The animal backed and stood quietly until the owner came puffing up.

...ware of Boredom!

Don't let yourself get into the habit of being bored. It is not worth while. When you feel it coming on plunge at once into some task that will take all your mind and energy. It is better to run the risk of certain things than to state you.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 25.—"I am simply overwhelmed at the knowledge that my slogan has won out in the big contest," said Miss Coop here today when informed that the judges in the nationwide slogan contest of the Newspaper Enterprise Association had placed their stamp of approval on her contribution, "and I'm terribly horribly fussed!"

"I just sat down and tried to think what we are really fighting for—what the war really means, and these words seemed to express it most comprehensively."

"I am sure if each one of us will do his or her part in this great war, keeping in mind the ideal of 'Freedom! For all! Forever!' the war will not have been in vain."

Over 2000 slogans were submitted in the southern California contest, conducted by the San Diego Sun, in which Miss Coop's was adjudged the local winner.

The judge found it no easy task to select the slogan, to be entered for San Diego. In the Newspaper Enterprise Association contest.

After careful deliberation, they awarded the prize to Miss Coop. The judges were thoroughly representative of the war spirit, each being prominent in local war work affairs.
